

There should be no change in the current rules on media ownership. A diverse and competitive media is essential to providing information to the general public. We need independently owned TV stations, newspapers, radio stations, etc... so that the news and information we hear is not provided by only a few organizations. Where I live, radio is dominated by extremely conservative talk with no other opinions heard. Many hard working people do not have time to read to receive better information. To get real, unbiased and unfiltered information on the war with Iraq I had to seek news sources outside of the US. If we allow large corporations to take over whole sectors of media and control many outlets then our information here in the US will become even worse. A free society has to be based on truth and not bias and greed.
